Building Design Input

As most are aware, for quite a few months we have had a conceptual drawing on the board in the back of the auditorium for the new building on Fruitland. We are now working with an architect to turn that concept into a reality. He has reviewed our initial ideas and has made certain suggestions based on his experience and knowledge. The time has come for our ideas and concepts to be put into a workable and functional plan for our new facility.

This Saturday, we are making available the opportunity for you to not only become familiar with the concept of the new building, but also to provide your input. Jean-Pierre Charpentier, John Dacca, and Mark Jamieson will meet with you to explain the ideas leading to the concept and also to hear your ideas.

Some of you may only be interested in learning more about our new facility, and we will be more than happy to do that for you. Others may have the “Why?” or “Have you thought about...?” questions, and we will gladly entertain all of those, too. But please understand, not everything is feasible, practical, or cost effective. Regardless, your input is VERY important!

We fully understand that some opinions are quite strong. This process is about bringing us together and glorifying our God and Savior, and not about dividing over preferences and opinions. We also understand that this building is about how the Puyallup church can be best served now, and in the near and distant future.

“Therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, put on tender mercies, kindness, humility, meekness, longsuffering; bearing with one another, and forgiving one another, if anyone has a complaint against another; even as Christ forgave you, so you must also do. But above all these things put on love, which is the bond of perfection.” – Colossians 3:12-14
