Children of Light

Is there a more beautiful figure than this, "children of light?" Driving down Meridian this last couple of weeks and seeing all the lights at the fair, and looking across the valley seeing all the homes lit up, each one attractive with brightness. And my life is to be like that! I think of a lighthouse sending out its strong, pure, friendly beams to guide the mariner as he seeks his "desired haven." And my life is to be like that! A neighbor who works at the fair has expressed several times how the light on the north side of the building gives her comfort as she comes home at night. And my life is to be like that!

If my soul is lit up in friendly radiance for others, the light will be my own defense. Light always scares away the vermin. Lift up a stone in the meadow, let in the light, and see how a hundred secret things will scurry away. Just like the light in the soul will scare away "the unfruitful works of darkness;" they cannot dwell in the light. Light repels the evil one; it acts upon him like burning flames. Yes, we are well protected when we are clothed in the “the armor of light.”

But how can we become “children of light,” holy homes of protective and saving radiance? Happily, it is not our lot to provide the light, it is ours to provide the lamp. If we offer the lamp, the Lord will give the light.

WEE THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: The man who walks straight himself keeps a good many other people from wobbling.
