Five Ways to Bless Someone this Lord's Day

"Let nothing be done through selfish ambition or conceit, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem others better than himself. Let each of you look out not only for his interests, but also for the interests of others." - Philippians 2:3-4

A dangerous mentality has flooded American churches. The consumer-driven culture we live in has made its way into the realm of religion. People often attend worship service with one thing in mind. We ask ourselves, "What am I going to get out of this?" We want to sing the songs we like and hear the preacher preach on the subjects we believe are important. But as the verse above makes clear, Christianity is no about our wants and desires, but about sacrifice and giving.

How do we move from a Christianity focused on ourselves, to a Christianity where we consider "the interests of others?" We must be purposeful, take small steps to change our thinking, break old habits, and look for ways to bless others. It begins with us.

Let's not wait until next week; rather, here are five ways you can bless someone today.

1. Sit next to someone who is alone.
2. Volunteer for something needful at church.
3. Pray for someone specifically.
4. Offer to watch someone's kids during worship.
5. Invite a widow or widower to lunch.

Being outward focused forces us to look and recognize people and situations beyond ourselves. In other words, it causes us to be more like Jesus and less like _____ (insert your name here).
