Christ is Sufficient

To-do lists are a great tool, but they seem to have a way of never getting quite finished. If we're not careful, always feeling the need to get something else done can create stress and anxiety. This feeling of never getting finished with things can carry over to other areas of life too, if we let it.

There are many who feel as if to be acceptable to God, they just need to do more or be better. While God does call us to a high standard of behavior, the feeling of needing to earn His acceptance is called legalism. When we understand what Christ has done for us, it motivates us to live differently, but it also brings relief because we do not have to earn our standing before God – Christ already did that for us. Paul told the Colossians that "in Him you have been made complete" (Col. 2:10).

Sunday Bible Classes: 10 am
Sunday Worship: 11 am & 5 pm
Wednesday Bible Study: 6:30 pm

When we are united with Jesus' death through obedience to the gospel, God has accepted us completely. Our relationship with God is complete through Him, and our sin is washed away entirely. Christians are called to do lots of things, but it is not about making our relationship with God complete. We do what God tells us to out of thankfulness that our relationship with God is already secure and complete through Jesus Christ.
