The Greatness of Our Cause

Back in the early part of the twentieth century, Booker T. Washington was struggling to build a school for the education of black people in Tuskegee, Alabama. He had very meager beginnings. He was attempting the impossible. In the course of time, Mr. Washington was granted an appointment with the great philanthropist Andrew Carnegie to ask of monetary assistance to aid in the work. He went and made his appeal, and Mr. Carnegie reached down into his desk drawer, got his checkbook, and gave Mr. Washington a check for $5,000.00. This was a large sum of money in those days and nothing for which to be ungrateful. However, Mr. Washington upon seeing the check handed it back and said, "Mr. Carnegie, it is obvious I have failed to impress you with the greatness of my cause." He then asked for another appointment, went home and did his homework a bit better and returned. This time Mr. Carnegie gave him a check for $500,000.00, and sent the same amount every year for several years thereafter to the work of the Tuskegee Institute for the education of black people.

The story of Booker T. Washington is well-known, and his cause was and continues to be one of great importance. However, the greatness of our cause is superior because it is HIS cause. It is superior because all people of all races and nationalities will die, after which they will stand in judgment before the great King and Judge the Lord Jesus Christ. Without the blood of God's Son offered by the love, grace, and mercy of the Father, they will perish eternally.

Expanding the borders of the Lord's Kingdom is a necessary part of being a part of His body. Jesus said, "Go therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you..." (Matthew 28:19-20).

We have been granted the amazing privilege and responsibility to "be the tree" that allows people to see Jesus. Jesus Himself has invited you to partake in this task. Please join us on this journey... There is no greater cause.
